

Military Toronto – 1868 - George T. Denison Jr. – Fenian Raids

The following letter shows John A. MacDonald's (M.P.) "Free Frank" on a letter to George T. Denison.

George Denison first saw service in 1834 as an officer of the 1st Regiment of West York Militia. In 1837 he fought at the battle of Gallows Hill when William Lyon McKenzie's rebels were routed. During the Fenian raids of 1866 he was in command of the Toronto garrison. He fought to promote a more vigorous military policy for the "development of a Canadian military tradition."

Many thanks for your note of the 3rd instant, with
your book on cavalry.
I shall take great pleasure in reading
it, and, although not a soldier, I have no doubt it will give me much information
Yours always
